DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claim does not distinctly point out and claim the instant invention. The claim refers to a third concentration of indium in claim 1. However, claim one does not recite three separate indium concentrations. Thus, it is unclear as to which concentration claim 14 refers to in claim 1.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1, 4, 12, 13, and 16 to 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Udagawa (6,541,797).

The Udagawa reference teaches a process for the growth of GaInN layers where the concentration of the indium is varied between the layers. On a substrate, a first layer of gallium nitride is grown. Then a first layer of GaInN is deposited with a first concentration of indium. A second layer of GaInN is then deposited on top of the first layer with a second indium concentration. The first and second indium concentrations are different and the second concentration is greater than the first. The deposition technique is molecular beam epitaxy and the temperature of growth is above 650°C. The grown structure is used as a light emitting device, note, entire reference and in particular the examples. The sole difference between the instant claims and the prior art is the varying of the indium source gas. However, in the absence of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine through routine experimentations the optimum, operable method of varying the indium concentration by varying the indium source gas in the Udagawa method in order to achieve the desired concentration and control over the concentration in each layer.

Claims 2, 3, 5 to 11, 14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Udagawa (6,541,797).

The Udagawa reference is relied on for the same reasons as stated, supra, and differs from the instant claims in the process parameters. However, in the absence of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine through routine experimentations the optimum, operable process parameters in the Udagawa method in order to grow layers with the high degree of quality needed to produce light emitting devices.
